

▲ Adam and Eve

This odd Cabin Home was built in 1907 and later on The Garden of Eden. Mausoleum and other attractions were added as time allowed the efforts of a disabled Civil War Veteran and retired farmer of 64 years to do the apparently impossible with native limestone. cement and various woods.

▲ Stone Log Cabin Home

Mr. Dinsmoor built his home of native limestone rocks and aptly named it the "Rock Log Cabin," since all rocks were cut and fitted like logs in a log cabin, except, five run full length just as did the logs of old time cabins. In fact, one of the rocks is twenty-seven feet long. The house consists of eleven rooms, bath, 2 closets, and cave.

In the yard surrounding the house, Mr. Dinsmoor built a "Garden of Eden," containing among other things, trees, sidewalks, fences, flower beds, fish pool, bird and animal cages, U.S. flags, a "Goddess of Liberty," soldier, Indian, animals, birds, a monument showing The Crucifixion of Labor, Angels, The Devil, Adam and Eve, The Serpent, Cain and Abel, and visitors dining hall. All these things are constructed of cement, and by 1927, he had used over 113 tons or about 2,273 sacks of cement.

▼ Stone Log Cabin Mausoleum

To the east of the Cabin Home Mr. Dinsmoor built a 40 foot high mausoleum of native limestone, again using rock which runs full length of the structure. He also built his own coffin. using cement for its construction. At his death in 1932 he was placed in his coffin in the mausoleum with his first wife.

▲ First Flag Ever Made of Concrete

Mr. Dinsmoor was born 1843, married his first wife, on horseback, in 1870. He was 64 years old when he built this stone log cabin in 1907, spent the next 22 years building the "Garden of Eden" and his mausoleum.

His first wife died in the spring of 1917. In the spring of 1924, at the age of 81, he was married to a 20 year old girl.
